Lajolo the Storm Center.

Napoleon Lajolo, the man who has done more than any single individual to keep the American and National leagues from patching up a truce, shows no signs of the load of responsibility which rests upon his shoulders.

The taking of Lajolo from the Philadelphia National league club by the American league club at Philadelphia was one of the main things which started the present war between the two big leagues, and it has been a bone of contention ever since. Its latest development is in the war between Reach and Rogers of the Philadelphia National league club, which may extend to the point where it will prove damaging to the National league as an organization.

Had Colonel Rogers given Lajolo the extra salary which the sensational batter demanded the whole history of the present fight might have been altered. Lajolo would undoubtedly have been with the National league yet had Rogers come to the front with the rise in question, and the complexion of the baseball world would have been much changed. Without the encouragement which the players in the National league received to jump from the fact that the courts at first held that Lajolo's contract was not binding, many of the former would never have come over to the American league, and the latter organization would never have attained its present strength.

PHILIPPINE HORRORS UNCOVERED.

(Pittsburg Post.)

The report on brutalities, cruelties, torture and the killing of prisoners over ten years of age, given to the public by the committee of anti-imperialists appointed to investigate the subject, so far as investigation was possible or permissible, is the most striking exposure of the Philippine war. Whether it reflects honor or shameless disgrace and dishonor on those managing affairs in the Philippines is a question for the conscience and Christianity of the American people. The document was printed in "The Post" in full yesterday morning and this was the only paper that gave it in full. Just why it was suppressed by the other papers we cannot conceive. The committee making the investigation and publication was an able and fearless one, jealous of the honor of the American people and army. Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, was chairman of the committee, and among its members are Carl Schurz, Andrew Carnegie, Moorfield Story, Herbert Welsh and Edwin Burritt Smith. The strong point made by the committee was to disprove and annihilate the defense of Roosevelt and Root that the Philippine horrors were rare and exceptional. The committee shows that they were general and participated in by those of high as well as low rank, showing that these crimes against humanity were encouraged by those responsible.

A LEGEND OF THE COLORADO

[Original]

Out in that magnificent country through which flows the Colorado there was once an Indian chief of such imposing mien, such great strength, such marvelous bravery, that his own and neighboring tribes attributed to him superhuman powers. His son, Rainbow, inherited much of his father's manly beauty and courage, and when the father became too old to lead in war he summoned his people and representatives of the neighboring tribes to witness the ceremony of his abdication in favor of the younger man. When all were assembled, Sunface, the father, addressed his son, admonishing him to rule wisely, then counseled the visiting chiefs to keep the peace, ending by placing in the young man's hand a spear which the old chief had carried for many years.

One of the chiefs present had brought his daughter, Singing Water, to witness the ceremony. Rainbow saw her and loved her. Singing Water saw the young chief and loved him. Before the maiden returned with her father to her country Rainbow had asked for her hand, but she had been promised to another. Snake-in-His-Hole.

Singing Water had no sooner departed than Rainbow fell into melancholy. His father, seeing that Rainbow would be useless as a ruler without the maiden, proposed that they should go together to her father and endeavor to secure her in marriage. They made the journey, crossing the Colorado, and appeared before the chief. He did not dare grant their request for fear of antagonizing Snake-in-His-Hole. Having met with a polite refusal, they started, with heavy hearts, on their return journey. On the way they saw Singing Water sitting on a rock waiting to bid adieu to the man she loved. Rainbow rode up to the rock, which was to the height of his pony's back. Singing Water put her arms about him and whispered in his ear, "Take me with you." Placing her before him on the horse, he gave the word he used only when he wished the beast to go at full speed, and before the few people standing about had realized what he was doing Rainbow, with his burden, was going like the wind. Sunface followed, calling on his son to halt.

Snake-in-His-Hole, seeing that something was amiss, rode to where the maiden had been captured and, learning what had taken place, dashed after the fugitives, calling at the same time to other warriors to follow him. Sunface when he overtook his son chided him for what he had done, saying that this was a rash act with which to begin his rule.

It seemed to the lovers that the old man spoke rashly, for the Colorado lay between them and safety, and its crossing was a slow process. Before they could descend a thousand feet to their boat their pursuers would be upon them, and when they climbed the opposite cliff they would be within easy reach of arrows.

When they arrived at the river, Sunface bade his son return to him the spear which he had surrendered and begin the descent to the river with the maiden. The young man gave up the spear and led Singing Water down the trail. When the pursuers came up, they found the old chief sitting on his horse in the bed of a shallow stream flowing between two rocks which he could touch with either hand and towering far above him.

The Indians had so long been used to considering Sunface as superhuman that the awe inspiring sight of the old man sitting on his horse, rigid, his spear poised, his eyes fixed upon their leader, brought them to a sudden halt. Snake-in-His-Hole himself, though brave and angered at the abduction of the maiden, recoiled.

"Stand aside, old man!" he cried. "We respect you for your past deeds and your age and would not harm you."

Sunface answered never a word, sitting fixedly, staring before him without moving his eyes from the speaker.

"He is the god of the past!" cried one. "No man can go between the rocks while he is there. He can call the lightning from heaven to aid him."

"He is mortal," said Snake-in-His-Hole, and he buried his spear at Sunface, but superstition diverted his aim, and the weapon rebounded from the rock at the right. Seizing another spear, Snake-in-His-Hole hurled it again, only to strike the rock on the left. Then the warriors drew off and watched the man they took for a god from a distance. Evening came, and still he moved not. Night came, and by the light of the full rising moon they saw the figure still sitting between the rocks, his eyes open and the reflection of the moon in the water striking upon his glittering orbs.

When midnight came, they said that no mortal could hold a spear poised so long, surely not an old man. When the pale face of the moon looked at them from the west, growing more and more ashen before the break of day, and the old chief still sat with his arm raised, one by one the people before him fell on their faces. When the sun chased away the shadows and the grim figure stood out more clearly, Snake-in-His-Hole was emboldened to ride forward. Drawing near, he leaned forward and peered into the white face. Then he knew that Sunface was dead.

Rainbow took the maiden across the river, then went back to his father. He was recrossing the river he met the Indians in a boat bearing the body of his father, whom they persisted in considering a god.

The two tribes were afterward united under Rainbow.

HESTER B. MERIWETHER.
AUTHOR'S BLUNDERS.

Some Mistakes in Which the Moon, Sun and Wind Figure.

The moon proves a terrible pitfall to most writers. Wilkie Collins once performed the marvelous feat of making it rise in the west. Rider Haggard, in "King Solomon's Mines," relies for the effective rendering of one of his most thrilling scenes upon an eclipse of the new moon.

Coldridge placed a star between the horns of the crescent moon, forgetting that to be visible in such a position the star would have to be between the earth and the moon or, say, 220,000 miles away only.

Next to the moon perhaps the sun is responsible for more glaring errors than any single concrete cause. At the beginning of a certain famous novel, the title of which a few years back was in everybody's mouth, an invalid character's room was said to have been lighted by one window looking directly toward the east. Yet at the end of the book, when the invalid dies, the author, wishing to make him part this life in a flood of glory, suffuses this eastern windowed room with the red glare of the setting sun.

Kingsley, too, made one of his heroes row out into the eastern ocean after the setting sun. But even this glaring absurdity has been capped. In a novel published by a well known firm there occurs the following passage, the scene being laid on board a fast sailing ship: "How's the wind?" asked the skipper. "East-northeast," replied the mate, glancing at the masthead pennant, which was streaming blithely in the direction indicated. "So that in the world, according to novelists, we should not only find the sun setting in the east, but pennants would 'stream' against the direction of the prevailing wind."

PRESIDENT WINTERGREEN'S MISTAKE

(Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company.)

The president of the International Insurance company was a busy man's everyday life, the half hour after lunch, when the remembrance of a good meal is enhanced by the tunes of a fragrant Havana. There was an unwritten law in the offices of the company that under no circumstances should the president be disturbed for thirty minutes after returning from lunch.

Small wonder that Muggsy, the office boy, trembled with apprehension as he knocked softly at the door of the president's office and the prescribed thirty minutes had passed. The usually placid brow of the president darkened as he growled:

"Come in."

"Please, sir," said Muggsy apologetically, "the gentleman who gave me this note said it was most important, sir, and dat no one else but you would do."

The president took the carefully sealed envelope and scanned the address carelessly: "Silas Wintergreen, Esq. Most important and absolutely private."

"Hm!" muttered the president as "Hm!" rettered to a discreet distance. "Most important and absolutely private." What the deuce!

The contents, however, proved more extraordinary than the address. Mr. Silas Wintergreen: Sir—If you will spare me five minutes of your time, I will give you some very important information which involves the saving for your company of many thousands of dollars. Yours respectfully, ADAM BUTTON.

"Tell him to come in," said the president. Muggsy retired and soon reappeared, followed by a small, thin, prematurely gray haired individual, whose deep set black eyes roved anxiously about the room. Muggsy respectfully made his absence conspicuous.

"Mr. Wintergreen," said the stranger, "my name is Patton—Adam Button, sir. I am an old patron of your company and now carry $75,000 insurance with you."

Mr. Wintergreen unbent considerably and coughed a polite response. The stranger continued: "I am in the employ of Bonds & Co., with whom you are no doubt acquainted. I am their confidential man and handle all of their out of town business." More unbending on the part of the president and a still friendlier cough.

"Some time ago," said the stranger, "I was induced, to speculate a little with my earnings. I won, and, as is the invariable rule, I tried the game of chance again. This time I won more. Then I received what I believed to be a sure tip on the market. So sure was I that I appropriated—borrowed is the term I then gave it—the sum of $25,000 belonging to my employers. Suffice to say that I lost everything."

Silas Wintergreen stiffened in his revolving chair. What did this man want—an embezzler, a thief—what could he want of the president of the International Insurance company?

"Mr. Wintergreen," continued the stranger, "my life is worth $75,000 to either company. Should I die tonight either accidentally or by suicide your company would have to pay my heirs $75,000 in gold." The president sat bolt upright in his chair. "Mr. Wintergreen, if I cannot make good my embezzlement by tomorrow at this time I am a ruined man. My employers will discover the theft, and I will be sent to jail. I cannot stand this. I would rather meet death a thousand times in a thousand forms. I had already concluded to make an end of my miserable existence when I thought of a plan. Should I die your company pays $75,000; should I live your company pays nothing."

Adam Button paused. He mopped his moist brow with his handkerchief. "Well," said the president in a cold tone—"well."

"Well," replied Adam Button, "I have a proposition to make your company. If you will pay me $25,000, I will give you my policy to you. If not, I will kill myself today and your company will lose $75,000."

The president deliberated some time. Presently an amused smile covered his smooth shaven features as he replied: "My dear fellow, that's the best hold-up game I ever heard of. Do you think I was born yesterday? Not on your life!"

Two red spots burned on the stranger's cheeks. "Before God, Mr. Wintergreen, I am telling the truth. It's my only chance. For the love of mercy, believe that I am serious."

"Oh, tommyrot!" replied Mr. Silas Wintergreen as he turned his back on the troubling stranger. "Get out! Hey, Muggsy!"

Muggsy appeared and, taking his cue from a wave of the president's hand, ushered the stranger from the room.

The dusk of the evening had already fallen upon the metropolis when the president of the International Insurance company boarded the State Central suburban train for his country home at Veradale. His regular newsboy at the depot had handed him his favorite evening paper. The president entered the smoker and settled himself down in the cushioned seat for a few puffs and a glance at the news. Glaring headlines on the front page immediately caught his eye:

REMOSE LEADS TO SUICIDE.

Confidential Clerk of Bonds & Co. Snuffs Out Life With Pistol Ball.

Adam Button Was Shot $25,000—Meets Death Rather Than Justice.

Carried Heavy Insurance.

The president of the International Insurance company let his cigar fall from his lips to the floor.

"Well," said he, "I'll be blanked!"

OHIO'S GREAT SALT BED

An Opportunity for Investors, Perfectly Safe, That Will Afford
Larger Dividends Than Any Other Similar
Enterprise in the State.

Unknown to every one except those interested in the business, there exists in northern Ohio one of the largest beds of pure salt in the United States. Professor Claypole, D. S. C. F. R. S., after having been engaged in geological research in all parts of the known world, said, "It is the largest and best salt bed in the world." After the professor's return from his researches, he located in Boston and later came to Akron, Ohio, as a professor in Buchtel College. It was while he was a professor at Buchtel College he made daily trips to the great salt well now owned by the Inter-State Oil Co. His full and frequent investigation of the many salt wells in and around Akron, led him to say, that this was the best and the largest salt bed in the world.

There are now twenty-five wells within a territory eighteen miles in length and about ten miles in width in Summit county, penetrating this great salt bed, and which have been put down at a cost of over $130,000.00.

Only a few of the readers of our great daily papers know there are now four great plants producing salt and its other products from this great salt bed. Three of these immense plants are producing the best salt in the United States. One is located at Wadsworth, one at Rittman and one at Halo, all in the vicinity of Akron, Ohio. The fourth plant is a chemical company and manufactures soda-ash and caustic from the salt bed. This soda ash plant at Barlerton is the largest of its kind in the United States. This great salt bed is less than four hours ride from this city.

There is every reason to believe, that owing to its size, and purity, this great salt bed will soon become the center of the production of salt in Ohio, and this will become one of the greatest of the salt producing states.

A few enterprising citizens of this state have organized a powerful company for the production of salt on a larger scale than has ever been attempted heretofore.

The sister industries of iron and steel, cdays and coal, have made millions for the large investors and doubled and re-doubled the money invested by the smaller stock-holders, so that in an ordinary life-time many of them have become wealthy.

All of the other valuable minerals, gold, silver, copper, etc., have to pass through an expensive refining and smelting process before they become commercially useful and profitable. But the salt from our vast bed is 99 per cent pure and needs only to be

The salt strata under the territory controlled by this company is 3 1/2 feet thick. Thus one acre would contain 2,257,378 barrels of salt. It would take three years to exhaust one acre with a plant producing 2,000 barrels of salt per day, and therefore to exhaust the 5,000 acres controlled by this company would take about 15,000 years.

This is indeed a rare opportunity for people who are seeking a better investment for their money, for it is infinitely safer and more profitable than most other manufacturing interests, building and loan, banks or real estate. Here is a great natural industry producing at a small cost, from salt that is 98.9 per cent commercially pure, a quality of salt that is unsurpassed by any other salt plant in the world.

Other plants in this same field have paid dividends as high as thirty per cent to their stock-holders, and there is no known reason why this company cannot pay as large or even larger dividends when it is once in operation. A dividend of 30 per cent will equal the capital invested in a period of about three years and four months, while in any business where only 6 per cent dividends are paid—and this is usually considered a very fair profit—it will take over sixteen years before the profits will equal the original investment.

This company expects to protect every dollar of its capital, whether invested with it in small or large sums, and establish absolute and unquestionable confidence on the part of its stock-holders in its business integrity and the care which it will give to all of their interests.

This company will make its first care the interests of all of its stockholders, paying at all times the largest dividends that the business is capable of earning.

A business of modern proportions—a business that is a safe investment and which can and will pay good dividends, a business located right here at home in Ohio, will offer a chance to the citizens of this community to share in its capital, and reap a portion of the harvest of dividends which will flow from the products of this company.

Some of Newark's citizens have already purchased stock in this company and at their request the citizens of Newark will be given an opportunity to purchase a limited amount of the capital stock.

GOVERNOR

WAS EXPECTED TO VISIT CAMP TODAY.

Owing to Rain Tuesday the Boys Had a Quiet Time but Have Extra Work Today.

Camp McKinley, July 30—Gov. Nash was expected to visit camp today but Assistant Adjutant General Taylor said this morning that the Governor may not come over this week as he wants to spend all of next week in camp here with the Second brigade.

Owing to the heavy rain in the morning, and another one in the afternoon there was not much doing in Camp McKinley, on Tuesday, and as a consequence the members of the troop and battery had an easy time of it. The regular drill of the troop, however, was had in the evening, the boys showing up to good advantage.

Captain S. H. Howland of Battery D, left for Granville on Tuesday evening, having received word that his father was coming down from Toledo to visit him, and that he would meet him in Granville. Mr. Howland, Sr., was a captain of artillery in the war of the rebellion, and has always taken great interest in Battery D.

The battery boys are having a hard time of it today as a number of extra drills were on the program, none having taken place on Tuesday on account of the rain.

After mess on Monday evening the troopers held a camp fire and singing, telling stories, etc., was indulged in. Among other things there was a very interesting talk on the origin of the ancient mounds and earthworks that cover the encampment grounds, and the probabilities of their being used again in modern warfare, their advantages, disadvantages, etc. The talk, while exceedingly interesting, failed to cast any additional light on the origin of the prehistoric works.

The members of Battery D are loud in their praises of the excellent food that is being provided them, while in camp. There is a complete change in the bill of fare every day. All the food used in Battery D, is thoroughly inspected by Surgeon Guirardnot before it is used, and it is first class in every respect. "Jimmy," the cook, is an excellent chef, and is deservedly popular with the boys. This is the third time he has gone into camp with the battery.

As a diversification the troopers had their pictures taken on Tuesday. Several excellent negatives were secured. The troop was photographed as whole while the officers' headquarters showed up finely. A number of views of the camp, which are pronounced to be very fine, were caught by the camera.

Tuesday Private Holtfreter of Battery D, was taken suddenly sick and his case was diagnosed by Captain Guirardnot, the surgeon of the battery who discovered that he was suffering with a severe attack of malarial fever which had been working on him for some time previous to his coming to camp. He was sent to the hospital, where he is being given the best of attention.

The funeral services of the late William W. Whitehead were held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, at the residence of his son, Dr. Howard Whitehead, 121 Price avenue. Rev. I. F. King had charge of the services assisted by Rev. Mr. Hartinger. The remains were taken to Jersey, O., for interment. The deceased was 63 years of age and the cause of his death was paralysis, due to a gunshot wound received in the civil war. Four sons survive Mr. Whitehead, William of Reynoldsburg, E. F., of Newark, Homer P. of Johnston, and Howard of this city.—Ohio State Journal.

COMPANY G.

Fourth Regiment in Splendid Shape for the Coming Encampment. Full Quota of Men.

Company G. of the Fourth regiment, Captain George C. Crawford, had drill exercise on Tuesday evening. The members of the company are becoming very proficient and will make a splendid showing at the coming encampment of the Second Brigade. During the past four weeks there have been twenty-nine enlistments and eight discharges in the company, which will have its full quota of members when the regiment goes into camp. At the meeting of the Company on Tuesday night the following order was read by Capt. Crawford:

- I. Sergeant W. P. Myer is hereby appointed First Sergeant and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

Home Life in England and America. The decay of the home life is to be attributed partially to the influence on society of the invasion of Americans.

In the United States home life is almost unknown. The meaning of the word "home," as understood to Britishers, is a mystery to Yankees. To a certain extent we have always envied you your home life, and I certainly agree with some of your correspondents that it would be disastrous for your country to lose the elevating and refining influences of the home.—Anglo-American in London Mail.

MR. LOFTUS

RESIGNS AS SUPERINTENDENT OF
ELECTRIC ROAD

To Accept Better Position in Indiana.
—His Successor Is Not Yet Named.

It was announced today that Mr. M. J. Loftus, superintendent of the Newark and Granville street railway lines had resigned his position with Buckeye Lake, to accept the general managership of the Indianapolis and Martinsville Rapid Transit Company. It is understood that the new position which Mr. Loftus will take embraces the management of 40 miles of interurban line running southwest from Indianapolis to Martinsville, over which a dozen large interurban cars built by the Jewett car company of this city are now being operated. Mr. Loftus' management of the city and Granville lines has been most efficient. He has the respect and willing support of his men in every move he makes for the betterment of the road, because he has always been obliging and kindly to those under him, in all his relations with them.

While he has been connected with the road, the 15 minutes service was put into operation, by means of the adoption of the block system, the example of which is now being followed by the Buckeye Lake road. With the same horse power, the same number of cars, Mr. Loftus has handled 25 per cent more people than the road has ever carried before during any similar period. It is not yet known who will take Mr. Loftus' place.

Meeting at Lake Hiawatha Park, Mt. Vernon—Mrs. J. B. Jones Presents
Banner to Portsmouth

Mt. Vernon, July 30—The annual business meeting of the Ohio Baptist Young People's union was held yesterday afternoon at Hiawatha assembly. The Rev. C. F. Rolston, vice president, was in the chair. The meeting was largely attended by delegates from the various unions of the state. It was voted that the assembly trustees should secure a lease on the park for five or more years, which fact assures assembly meetings here for at least five years. The assembly will invest in tents and full equipment. For this purpose it was voted to ask the unions of the state to contribute $3000. More than one-fifth of the sum was pledged within 10 minutes in the meeting.

The secretary's report shows 191 senior and 75 junior unions in the state with a membership of 7562 seniors and 2898 juniors. The report of the treasurer shows the finances to be in good condition. More than $2100 was paid by the state on the international debt during the year.

The junior banner was presented by Mrs. J. B. Jones of Newark to the Society of Antiquity church at Portsmouth, it being received by Mrs. W. C. Stevenson on behalf of the society. The Mansfield union won the good stewardship banner, which was presented by State Treasurer H. G. Baldwin of Cleveland and received by C. F. Jesson of Mansfield.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. C. F. Rolston of Warren; vice presidents (southeastern district) Rev. Henry Brandt of Ironton; (northwestern district) G. M. Chute of Toledo; (southwestern district) Rev. U. S. Davis of Dayton; (central district) Rev. H. C. Lyman of Delaware; (northwestern district) L. Williams of Columbus; treasurer H. G. Baldwin of Cleveland; superintendent of junior work, Miss Anna Wright of Fredericktown; assembly directors, Rev. C. J. Rose, Mt. Vernon and Rev. B. F. Patt, Newark.

The attendance at the various meetings of the assembly has been most gratifying, and it is believed that there will be a neat balance in the treasury at the close of the meetings. Among the late registrations at the Hiawatha park Baptist assembly at Mt. Vernon from Licking county are the following: Miss Mary Dennison, Granville; Bertha Fleming, Newark; Mrs. J. S. Pickering, Mrs. E. I. Rugg, Newark; G. E. Leonard, Granville; Mrs. Samuel Sachs, Newark; Miss Eva D. Mosteller, Newark; Mrs. J. M. Amos, Mrs. J. D. Watson, Bita Coulter, Mrs. T. # CHAS. H. BROWN

Formerly of Newark is Democratic Candidate for Clerk of Court in Franklin County

The Columbus Citizen has this to say of Charles H. Brown, formerly of Newark, who is the Democratic nominee for Clerk of Courts in Columbus.

The nomination of Charles H. Brown for Clerk of the Common Pleas Court on the Democratic ticket is corded by Republicans to have materially increased the probabilities of Democratic success in Franklin county next November. Democrats, therefore, very naturally regard the nomination with satisfaction. It was achieved at the May primaries by a majority of 1700 in a canvass conducted with spirit by both candidates. This was Mr. Brown's second candidacy for the same nomination. Three years ago he came within 31 votes of obtaining it, in a total vote of 11,000 at the primaries. With the exception of the common pleas clerkship he has never been an aspirant for office although for many years active in local politics in behalf of the Democratic party.

Mr. Brown was born in Ohio forty years ago and from childhood has made his own way in the world. He has been twenty-five years a resident of Columbus, during all of which he has been an untiring worker, faithful to all who repose confidence in him and proverbially loyal to his friends. The latter he counts by the hundreds throughout all this section, for no man in Columbus has come in personal contact with a greater number of people than he, in such a way as to form a mutually agreeable relationship.

Mr. Brown is exceptionally well qualified for the office of clerk of the courts. He indicated what could be expected of him in such a capacity, when three years ago as deputy clerk of the Police court he brought order out of chaos in the disorganized state of affairs prevailing in that office. The system he then inaugurated in the clerk's office of the city prison has been adhered to since that time by succeeding administrations. At the present time he holds the responsible position of secretary of the Central Building, Loan and Savings company in connection with which he has greatly extended his acquaintance among business men, who regardless of party unite in the opinion that his election will materially promote the interests of the courts, of litigants and of the public.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Miss Alice Cohn, writes from 474 Eleventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., as follows:

"Having had poor health for a great many months and now having it restored makes me feel very grateful to Peruna. I suffered a great deal during my monthly periods, had severe pains, and was generally depressed, but can truthfully say that a few bottles of Peruna has removed all pain and made a new woman of me.—MISS ALICE COHN.

The coming of what is known as the "new woman" in our country is not greeted by everyone as if she were a great blessing. But there is another new woman whom everybody is glad to see. Every day some invalid woman is exclaiming, "I have been made a new woman by Dr. Hartman's home treatment." It is only necessary to send name, address, symptoms, duration of sickness and treatment already received to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., and directions for one month's treatment will be promptly forwarded. The medicines can be obtained at the nearest drug store.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

This big O and that big E stand for two little words that represent what is necessary for every advancement we make in life—OUR EFFORT.

Effort means activity, physical and mental. Activity uses up vitality and wears away tissue. Vitality and tissue must be rebuilt or health departs. Body-building material comes from proper food. Food, then, of the proper kind, makes effort possible. Effort makes the man. Your doctor will tell you that the whole wheat kernel contains every element necessary for building up each part of the human body, and that barley malt is the best natural tonic. "FORCE" is composed of the whole of the wheat and barley malt, ready cooked, in the form of a crisp, delicate, delectable flake, and contains in just the proper proportions those elements required for nourishing, strengthening and invigorating the human body.

Health Help

Many succumb just as they grow better, after the disease has passed—little vital force left to help reestablish health.

At such a period Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil (with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda) nourishes the vital organs while it cleanses the entire system by dissolving every remaining trace of disease.

NEWARK ELKS

At a Special Meeting Tuesday Night Initiated Two New Candidates. Official Inspection.

The special meeting of Newark lodge 391, B. P. E., held Tuesday evening was one of the most enjoyable secret society events of the season. The meeting was called to meet District Deputy S. H. Needs, who is on an official tour, inspecting the various lodges of Elks in his district. The principal business of the evening was the reception of Deputy Needs and the initiating of two candidates, Messrs. Wm. Anderson, Jr., and Charles A. Smith into the mysteries of Elkdom. A delightful social session followed the initiation, at which Exalted Ruler Dr. G. H. Woods presided most gracefully as toastmaster. District Deputy E. M. P. Brister responded with a happy toast on Elkdom. A brief response was also made by a visiting brother from Leesburg, W. Va., and the newly initiated candidates were called out and made handsome responses, the exercises closing with a story told by Mr. George Warner, in his usual inimitable manner. Mr. Needs left for Zanesville Wednesday.

THE ELKS

A Touching Tribute Paid to the Memory of the Late Hon. Wm. Bell, Jr.

At the last social session of Newark Lodge No. 391, B. P. O. E., held on Tuesday evening, July 29, Judge E. M. P. Brister, in responding to the eleven o'clock toast, "To Our Absent Brothers," paid the following touching tribute to the memory of the late Hon. Wm. Bell Jr.

My Brothers—One again has Death invaded our charmed circle and taken from us one of our best beloved brethren. Another link has been severed in our bright, fraternal chain on earth, to be affixed, as we fondly believe, to the eternal throne of love on high. The hour of eleven will now have for us a deeper and more tender significance than ever, for it will remind us that we now have still another "absent brother,"—absent from the flesh, but joined to us in spirit—who has gone before, into that unknown land; into light ineffable, where he awaits in fond expectancy, for the loved left here a little while, to join him, in an unending reunion, after life's fitful fever is over!

In the presence of the grim monarch of all—Death!—that monarch before whose edict all must finally bow, from the King on his throne to the pauper in his rags; that monarch whose reign is universal and who neither fear nor love can move, nor the wealth of Indies bribe—we feel our utter weakness and helplessness and mere human words seem vain mockery!

But, in the presence of a sorrow like the one that crushes us to earth to-night, my brethren; a sorrow that is deeper than the grave and more bitter and cruel than Death itself—what shall we say, what can we say? How can we do justice to the memory of our departed brother? How can we show our appreciation of his noble life and many virtues and our deep sense of utter loss? What shall we say to the stricken ones, bowing under the heaviest sorrow of all their lives and longing, with a longing that is unutterable.

For the touch of a vanished hand, And the sound of a voice that is still. Ah! my brethren! how poor and weak and inadequate are human words and human sympathy, at a time like this! There are Gethsemanes in every human life, where the stricken soul must struggle alone in the darkness, with its agony, and this is one of them! There are times in every human life, when the tenderest touch of loving sympathy will only cause the wounded heart to bleed afresh—and this is one of them!

But, in the awful presence of Death itself, and in the very shadow of a sorrow that seems inconceivable—forn Memory dwells in tender recollection, upon the noble, manly and loving life, that has just passed from the shadows and sorrows of earth to the eternal realities of that world where shadows and sorrows are unknown; and Faith and Hope look forward, in eager anticipation, to that glad reunion, in the land where partings never come! He was a manly man—the departed brother we mourn tonight—one of whom it could be said, in very truth, that

"Nature marked him for a man!" Cast in a heroic mould, he was a man of broad and generous impulses; deep and noble feelings; true and genuine intuitions. Brave as any knight of old and loyal to his convictions, he was always fearless in his discharge of duty and in adherence to what he considered right. Yet he was always tender and considerate of the feelings of others and shrank from inflicting needless pain, and so he was ever the kind and thoughtful gentleman. His was an unusually genial and sunny nature. Life's shadows fled at his approach and he seemed to live in perpetual sunshine.

Perhaps the distinguishing element of our departed brother's character was his great kindness of heart and generosity of nature. No call of distress ever fell unheeded upon his ear. No appeal for help ever failed to find quick and liberal response from his generous heart. A heart so generous that it did not wait for occasions for its benefactions but sought out and created them. To him will it be surely said at the last great day: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto Me."

Called by the people to many positions of honor and trust, he served them faithfully, for half a century, in important public offices, and never was that trust betrayed. A man who can keep firm hold upon the public confidence and the public heart so long, amid all the changes and vicissitudes of a political career, must be, in worthy of trust and confidence. In the home he was the devoted husband and the loving father and always the kind and faithful friend. His faith in man was co-ordinated by his simple, childlike trust in the unfeeling power and goodness of the All-Wise Heavenly Father.

Such was Brother William Bell, Jr., whom we tonight so sadly mourn. To the bereaved friends, we can only say, we, too, sympathize, that is, we suffer with you! Your loss is our loss and your sorrow our sorrow. He alone who made the human heart can heal its wounds; and, even in this dark hour, we tenderly bid you remember that

"Earth hath no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal."

To the brethren, this hour brings again the constantly recurring admonition that earth is not our final home, and that we, too, must prepare for that inevitable change that awaits us all. "Be ye therefore ready!" is the solemn warning of our mortality. He alone is ready who spends his life in the service of love—love to God and love to fellowman!

My brethren, let us imitate the virtues of our departed brother. Let us ever cultivate the broad, generous spirit of Fidelity, Brotherly Love, Justice and Charity that distinguished his life. Let us be true Elks, and seek the higher interpretation of Elkdom, that cometh from above! Then, will life be rich in blessing and the darkness of death itself be gilded over with the sunlight of hope.

And now, beloved brother, farewell!—a long farewell! Beloved in life, thou wilt be sadly mourned in death! Farewell!

"Till the stars are old and the sun grows cold, And the graves give up their dead."

Farewell! till death is swallowed up in life; till time is lost in eternity and life shall be life forevermore!

Bonemeal and Cracker Crumbs.

My experience is that there is nothing better than bonemeal to make bone and muscle in young poultry, says Mrs. Mark Thompson. I feed one tablespoon to every twenty chicks morning and night mixed with the food. I also find cracker crumbs an excellent feed when mixed with equal parts of cornmeal and middlings. These I buy at the cracker factory for a cent per pound.

Left Helpless.

Mrs. Brown—So your girl has left you? What for, for mercy's sake? Mrs. Black—Absolutely for nothing. Mrs. Brown—Oh, that's it! I remember you told me she wouldn't leave you for anything.—Boston Transcript

Women Wrestlers in London.

The woman wrestler is never likely to be popular in England, but she is undeniably entertaining now and then. There was a challenge match for $500 at a recent matinee performance at the Royal between Miss Bradford, who claims the championship in England, and Miss. Adele Fournier, an agile and graceful young Frenchwoman, half a head shorter. The Englishwoman won the first and final bouts in good time, but her opponent, who won loud applause for her skill and resource, has demanded a second meeting, and this is now being arranged.

THE COURTS

Manora Roshon, by her attorney, S. L. Janney, has commenced an action for damages against George W. Saviers, asking $5,000. She charges that the defendant, maliciously intending to injure her in her good name and reputation and to cause it to be believed that she was unchaste uttered and published certain defamatory words of and concerning plaintiff.

Natural Gas Suit.

Louisa Pratt, E. A. Pratt, J. G. Pratt, Walter Pratt and Charles C. Pratt, by their attorney, Walter A. Irvine, have commenced a suit against the Central Ohio Natural Gas & Fuel Co. Plaintiffs recite that the defendant is engaged in unloading pipes, excavating trenches and laying pipes for the transmission of natural gas along the highway in Monroe township, and intend to lay pipes along that part of the highway of which plaintiffs are owners. That the pipes, if laid, will pass near plaintiff's residence, and will be dangerous to the life and property of plaintiffs, and will be an injury in plaintiff's property, decreasing the value thereof. That no right has been acquired by defendant to lay said pipe. A temporary injunction was allowed upon plaintiffs giving $200 bond.

An Appointment.

Peter Copeland has been appointed administrator of the estate of Rohanzo Copeland, deceased, of Monroe twp. Bond $2000.

Novel Use For Missionaries.

A new phase of the missionary question is coming to the front, says the North China Herald. In the past the difficulty in this region (Fochau) has been to find any one willing to identify himself with the hated western religion. But now from every side come requests from a large number of men asking to have a "teacher" sent to their town, with the offer of a chapel free. The requests are, without exception, made in the hope of getting the foreigners, or at least the "church," to take up their law cases.

Streets of Gold.

The streets of Ballarat, the famous Australian golden city, if not precisely paved with the precious metal, offer chances of treasure from time to time, says the Ballarat Gazette. A scavenger, sweeping one of the street channels recently, found a pretty little nugget weighing an ounce. It was probably brought from one of the mines in the gravel used for the top dressing of the road.

National Methods.

"Doc" Carney, the crack right fielder and hard hitter when the Boston Nationals refuse to buy unless he signs a contract for 1903 with that team, made four hits and three runs in the double header at Boston recently. It is this same spirit that is harming the National League.

Wagner's Suspension.

Hans Wagner was in the game for Pittsburg, at Brooklyn, Tuesday, and batted in his old time form. Wagner was put out of a game at St. Louis last week, and the same day was suspended by John T. Brush. Immediately there was a mighty howl went up that Brush "had it in" for the Pirates and his action in the Wagner case coupled with the suspension of Conroy for his mix up with Tinker at Chicago, while the latter, whom all said was to blame went free, gave good grounds for believing that Brush would strain a point to give the champions the worst of it. The loss of the St. Louis series was attributed to Wagner's absence, and Pittsburg's press and public rose in arms and called Brush to time. They clamored for Barney Dreyfuss to join the American League, and everything points to the fact that next season will find him there.

The desertion of Pittsburg would take the last prop from under the tottering National League but would rebound to the best interests of base ball. The sooner such men as Brush and Freedman are eliminated from base ball the better off the National game will be. They are totally selfish, unsportsmanlike and penurial.

Newark vs. Columbus Unions.

Let every one who enjoys a good game of base ball and wishes to encourage the game in Newark, attend the game next Friday afternoon between the Newark team and the strong Unions of Columbus. This will be the best game played so far this season, as both teams are strong in every position.

Manager Wilson Helsey will place the strongest team at his command in the field to oppose the Columbus players, and every effort will be made to put the game on the right side of Newark's base ball ledger. Remember the grounds are only three minutes' walks from the street car. Ladies are also urged to attend this game.

Dreyfuss and Brush.

Barney Dreyfuss is one of the most liberal, and thoroughly sportsmanlike men ever in baseball. The treatment accorded him and his team of pennant winners by such a narrow minded and greedy man as John T. Brush is something to arouse the sympathy of all lovers of square base ball. Dreyfuss was thinking seriously and is now, of joining the American League with his team of champions. He can bank his last cent that he will get a square deal with Ban Johnson. Go over Barney. Those who wish you well would like to see you make the change.

Base Ball Sunday.

The High school base ball club of Zanesville, will play the Molders at Idlewild park Sunday afternoon. The Zanesville boys will come up with the Bauer band excursion from Zanesville Sunday morning.

Francis Will Play Friday.

Manager Wilson Helsey today announced the line up of his team against the Unions next Friday afternoon as follows:

Fisher, catcher; Monroe or Windsor, pitcher; Rogers, first base; Helsey second base; Francis short stop; Howard third base; Graesser, left field, Perry, center field; Dickinson, right field.

Art Francis, who recently resigned as American Association umpire, will play short for Newark. Francis is one of the best players ever seen in Newark, his sensational work in the two games July 4th being well remembered.

Sporting Notes.

Manager Helsey will probably have the strong Zanesville team as a Labor Day attraction.

Quite a number of Newark horsemen attended the races in Columbus this afternoon.

The grand circuit races at Columbus, were postponed Tuesday on account of rain.

The Chicago White Sox are having a disastrous Eastern trip. In fact reverses have the effect of making the American League race very close and exciting.

Clarence Currie who was released by Cincinnati pitched a great game for St. Louis, beating New York 5 to 1, and allowing the Giants only six hits.

Patsy Donovan's St. Louis Cardinals are a bunch always to be reckoned with. They beat Muggsy McGraw's 'Jumppin' Giants' 5 to 1 Tuesday. Good boy, Patsy. Trim 'em again.

Jack Harper and Rube Waddell indulged in a pitchers' battle at Philadelphia Tuesday. Marvelous fielding by St. Louis behind Harper enabled them to win 3 to 1. The attendance was 5171 as against 666 who attended the National League game between Cincinnati and the Phillies, which leads us to again remark that the American League is playing better base ball, and getting the patronage.

Young Corbett and Terry.

Young Corbett has finally agreed upon a date to fight Terry McGovern. William Crowley of Hartford, who was instrumental in bringing the boys together last Thanksgiving day, has been after the Denverite for some time, but Corbett was unwilling to tackle McGovern again until late in the fall.

YOUNG CORBETT.

He declared that he did not have to fight and pointed to the fact that when he was anxious to meet the former champion he had to make all sorts of concessions.

Corbett was billed to fight Dave Sullivan before the St. Louis club recently, but the authorities refused to permit the battle to take place, claiming that it was nothing short of a prize-fight. Crowley was on deck and asked Corbett to face McGovern in August. He was at first averse to signing, but finally agreed to tackle Terry on the 20th of next month. Corbett may be of the opinion that the accident which the terrible Terry met with while playing baseball will prevent him from putting up a good fight, but such is not likely to occur.

The injury to his arm is not as serious as was at first thought. In fact, within the past week he has been able to use it as of old. He is very anxious to fight Corbett again and believes that he will make it interesting for him the next time they meet. According to a report received from St. Louis, the Denverite never looked so well. It was said by his manager that the stories circulated about him to the effect that he was not taking good care of himself have no foundation whatever.

The Memphis Meeting.

The Memphis Trotting association has carried on an active campaign for its meeting which opens Oct. 21 and continues nine days. Murray Howe, secretary, has announced ten purses, worth from $2,000 to $3,000 each, and several special events for trophies. Included in the latter are the Transylvanula, "free for all trotting mules," which has aroused much amusing rivalry among horsemen (or "mulemen"), and the contest for the silver cup offered by the association will undoubtedly be a race to dream of. Ed Geers has an entry for the Transylvanula, a "dark mule," "his said, and he is willing to wager the whole Village farm outfit that his long eared candidate will carry away the prize.

The ten purses are as follows: The Emerald handicap of $3,000, for 2:09 pacers; the Magnolia of $2,000, for 2:11 trotters; the Gayoso of $2,000, for 2:12 trotters; the Diamond handicap of $2,000, for 2:15 trotters; the Mazuma of $2,000, for 2:30 trotters; the Bluff City of $2,000, for two-year-old trotters; the Cotton of $2,000, for 2:14 pacers; the Sunny South of $2,000, for 2:10 pacers.

The Olympian Games.

Governor Yates of Illinois has accepted the invitation to be present and assist at the inauguration of the International Olympian games to be held at Chicago in 1904. He said, "The enterprise is one that must enlist the sympathy and support of every person in interest in the physical, moral and military welfare of our people." A detail of state troops will be ordered to Chicago to participate, and the governor will endeavor to interest the governors of other states.

Harriman's Horses.

W. J. Andrews, who handles all of E. H. Harriman's horses, is now located at the Poughkeepsie track, where the horses are being trained. The string includes six head, consisting of Elsie S., 2:11½; Helen Grace, 2:11½, and four colts by Stamboul. The stable will be re-enforced by others from the Arden farm, Orange county, N. Y., later on.

That Pittsburg Rumor.

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club denies the report that he has increased the salaries of O'Connor and Wagner in order to keep them from jumping to the American. He has two year agreements with these players and will raise no salaries nor change them in any way until these contracts expire.

OBITUARY

Bridget Riordan was born in the city of Limerick, Ireland, in August 1819, and died at her home near Jersey, Licking county, on the 14th of July, 1902, of the debilities incident to advanced years, in the 83d year of her age. The deceased lost her parents by death while a young girl, and in 1837 came with her aunt and other relatives, a young orphan girl, to try her fortunes in the great land of opportunity—America.

In November of 1840, Miss Riordan was married to Patrick Dinan, also a native of Ireland, at the home of her aunt in New York City. The young couple came immediately to what was then the west and settled in Jersey township, Licking county, in 1840, on the farm which remained their home until they were translated by the hand of death to the eternal home in Heaven. This happy union lasted for 43 years, until the 18th of October, 1883, when the beloved husband and father, Patrick Dinan, who had served his Lord so well on earth, was called to come up higher.

Nine children were born to this happy union—six sons and three daughters, four of whom are now living on earth, the other five being with their parents in the better land. The four living are Fred Dinan and Mrs. Mary Rowe of Marion, O., and Miss Elanor Dinan and Miss Fannie Dinan, who live on the old home place, two miles and a half south of Johnstown; the beautiful old home place sanctified by the piety and devotion of the dear old mother for 62 long years.

The funeral of Mrs. Dinan took place on Thursday, July 17, 1902, Rev. Father Johnson of Columbus, officiating, and the interment was made in the little church yard of St. Joseph's Church, to whose welfare and prosperity the deceased had been so devoted in life.

Thus has passed away from earth to Heaven one of the most useful and interesting characters that has ever blessed our community. Devoted to her family in a large degree, Mrs. Dinan was instant in every good word and work for the benefit of the community and the world at large, and for the advancement of the church which she loved so well.

When Mr and Mrs Dinan came to Licking county, a young bride and groom, in 1840, there was no Catholic church, the church of their faith, in Jersey township. There were about half a dozen Catholic families in the township, and missionary priests from Danville to visit these families came over on horse back, forty miles and administered the rites of the church.

In this way many bright young priests who afterward became eminent in the church, among them Arch Bishop Lamy, administered to the religious wants of this little colony. Mr. and Mrs. Dinan and the other members of the colony determined there should be a church of their faith in Jersey township, and with the Carrs, the Haughs, the Garretts, organized the present church of St. Joseph's which stands there a monument of their piety today, and no one was more zealous in the organization and maintenance of the church than was Bridget Dinan.

Hon. James R. Stanberry, now deceased, gave the lot for the church, which was at first a simple log structure, which was replaced some thirty years ago by the handsome church edifice which now stands there. Mrs. Dinan was a thoroughly womanly woman in all respects, a devoted wife, a loving mother, true friend. Her first duty was to her religion; her next to her family, and then came her love for old Ireland—her native country, which never grew cold.

She was a woman who combined a strong practical nature with a refined literary taste, and genuine love for the beautiful, in art, nature and life. A true Irish rose, inheriting all the beauty and fragrance of the Emerald Isle, she was transplanted to the wilderness of the west, which she grew to see blossom like the rose, and at last death transferred her to the paradise above, to bloom forever in the garden of the Lord.

Her life was filled with the fragrance of true womanly character, supplemented by the high Christian grace. She will be sadly missed by the children, grand-children, and other friends to whom she was so dear. Missed by the church to which she was so devoted; missed in this world of sin and sorrow in which she was ever a ministering angel, and life will never seem the same again. The sunlight will have lost something of

SMALLPOX AT MT. STERLING.

Wednesday morning's Zanesville Times-Recorder has the following: The Elliott family, who were under quarantine for fourteen days by having been exposed to smallpox at Frazeyburg, were turned loose last Monday week, and on the eighteenth day Mrs. Elliott broke out and the house is again under quarantine. There are four in the family and three others at least who have been exposed to it. Mr. Elliott is township clerk, and Dr. O. I. Corson Monday fumigated the township books preparatory to appointing a clerk pro tem.

The smallpox at Frazeyburg is now over.

REVOLUTIONARY DAYS.

It is a remarkable fact that two of Newark's well known citizens, are sons of men who were born in revolutionary days. The late Hon. Lucius B. Wing was the son of a soldier in the Revolutionary war, but Thos. H. Sites and Henry Baker the blacksmiths, are sons of men who were born during the stirring days of 1773-78. Mr. Baker's father was born in 1773 and Mr. Sites' father first saw the light five years later. It is a coincidence that each was 57 years of age at the time of the birth of Mr. Sites and Mr. Baker, the former being born in 1837 and the latter in 1830. Mr. Baker has been a Newark blacksmith for 49 years.

The large capital and surplus of the bank, its financial position and its established reputation for conservative banking methods are among the substantial advantages offered to present and prospective patrons. To maintain and to increase these advantages is the policy of the management.

The equipment in every department is thorough, modern and efficient.

We take particular pains to make our customers feel that we are in business to serve them, and that nothing we can do within the limit of safe banking is too much trouble, if it will accommodate a depositor.
